

PLANNING FOR TOMORROW

INFORMATION PROVIDED BY

THE NEBRASKA UNITED METHODIST FOUNDATION

hen you consider it, we plan for many things in life-retirement, vacation, our children's education. That is why it just makes sense to plan for your funeral and cemetery arrangements. Planning your final arrangements is not only financially wise, but it tremendously eases the burden placed on your loved ones, while ensuring that your final plans will be carried out according to your wishes. This booklet will assist you in recording your final wishes as well as personal information and thoughts that will be- without doubt-cherished, read and reread by those who love you.

It is suggested that you complete your "planner" and place it in a secure but familiar place.

TO MY LOVED ONES...

This planner includes my personal information and details concerning my final arrangements.

It is my hope that it will serve as a valuable reference and will help to alleviate some of the burden and any confusion regarding my final wishes. Please know that this booklet was thoughtfully and sincerely prepared with you in mind. I leave it in your care, along with my fondest thoughts and my love.

DECISIONS

If the decisions that must be made at the time of death and the information that must be gathered seem quite overwhelming, think how those handling all your arrangements at a time of stress and sadness would feel! This is yet another reason why it just makes good sense to plan today.

While decisions concerning financial arrangements and beneficiary listings are usually things we have thought about and discussed but simply have never taken the time to officiate, many people are confused or uncomfortable when it comes down to the basics of preplanning funeral and cemetery arrangements. This is quite normal when you consider these subjects are not generally discussed openly-and when they are it is usually at a time of great duress. Some terms that you may want to become more familiar with include:

Traditional Burial. This term generally refers to ground burial in which the body is placed into a casket and lowered into the ground. Depending upon the location chosen, a burial site may be marked with a headstone, ground memorial or plaque.

Cremation. Cremation is the process in which the body is placed into a chamber of extreme heat and reduced to “cremains.” Final disposition of cremains may range from ground burial to scattering to permanent memorialization in an urn garden or columbarium.

Mausoleum Interment. A mausoleum is a structure allowing for above-ground interment. Mausoleums may be enclosed or have a variety of special features. Mausoleum sizes may range from a small “family” mausoleum to large and impressive structures. Many mausoleums also have a special area designated for cremation urns.

Casket. This term refers to the receptacle in which the body will be housed, whether permanently or prior to cremation. There are extensive casket choices available.

Urn. An urn is a decorative and permanent container used for the memorialization of cremains. As noted, the urn may be placed into a burial site, enclosed in a columbarium or even displayed in the home

Memorial Service. Whether traditional disposition or cremation is chosen, a memorial service is perhaps one of the most important aspects of the coping process for the family and friends left behind. As a final and unique tribute to the deceased, a memorial service or ceremony may be as traditional, personal, customized or elaborate as you wish.

The above are rather general definitions and you will probably have many questions surrounding these subjects. It is important that you request information so that you may be assured you are making the most knowledgeable decisions possible.

VETERANS BENEFITS INFORMATION

What Are VA Burial Allowances?

VA burial allowances are partial reimbursements of an eligible veteran's burial and funeral costs. When the cause of death is not service related, the reimbursements are generally described as two payments: (1) a burial and funeral expense allowance, and (2) a plot or interment allowance.

Who Is Eligible?

You may be eligible for a VA burial allowance if:

- you paid for a veteran's burial or funeral, AND
- you have not been reimbursed by another government agency or some other source, such as the deceased veteran's employer, AND
- the veteran was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

In addition, at least one of the following conditions must be met:

- the veteran died because of a service-related disability, OR
- the veteran was receiving VA pension or compensation at the time of death, OR
- the veteran was entitled to receive VA pension or compensation, but decided not to reduce his/her military retirement or disability pay, OR
- the veteran died while hospitalized by VA, or while receiving care under VA contract at a non-VA facility, OR
- the veteran died while traveling under proper authorization and at VA expense to or from a specified place for the purpose of examination, treatment, or care, OR
- the veteran had an original or reopened claim pending at the time of death and has been found entitled to compensation or pension from a date prior to the date of death, OR
- the veteran died on or after October 9, 1996, while a patient at a VA-approved state nursing home.

How Much Does VA Pay?

Service-Related Death. VA will pay up to $2,000 toward burial expenses for deaths on or after September 11, 2001. VA will pay up to $1,500 for deaths prior to September 10, 2001. If the veteran is buried in a VA national cemetery, some or all of the cost of transporting the deceased may be reimbursed.

Nonservice-Related Death. VA will pay up to $300 toward burial and funeral expenses and a $300 plot-interment allowance for deaths on or after December 1, 2001. The plot-interment allowance is $150 for deaths prior to December 1, 2001. If the death happened while the veteran was in a VA hospital or under VA contracted nursing home care, some or all of the costs for transporting the veteran's remains may be reimbursed.

How Can You Apply?

You can apply by filling out VA Form 21-530, Application for Burial Benefits. You should attach a copy of the veteran's military discharge document (DD 214 or equivalent), death certificate, funeral and burial bills. They should show that you have paid them in full. You may download the form at <http://www.va.gov/vaforms/>

A WILL

Everyone should have a properly executed Will. A Will is a legal document ensuring that, after death, your possessions will be treated according to your instructions. Without a Will, state laws, a court or a judge may decide how and to whom your property and other personal effects are to be distributed. It is recommended that the Will be prepared by a competent attorney or someone of equivalent expertise.

You should review your Will every few years. This is good practice since federal and state laws affecting your estate may require your Will to be revised. In additions, if you move to another state or if your family situation changes, such as the birth of a child, death of a beneficiary, etc., your Will might be affected.

Upon death, your Will must be probated and your estate administered. This may be a complicated process that may take time. The process may be administered by a competent executor of your choice. You may even include in your Will the names of attorneys and accountants you wish to assist in the execution of this legal procedure. Remember, in the absence of a Will, you run the risk of having your property and personal assets tied up in protracted court proceedings. These delays may cause undue hardship on your beneficiaries.

When you consider everything that is at risk, the preparation and cost of a Will may be well worth the effort and is a vital part of your prearrangement program.

A LIVING WILL DECLARATION

Today's improved medical technology and procedures enable a terminal patient's life to be prolonged almost indefinitely. This medical progress has raised the question of an individual's "right to die" or desire to "die with dignity." This situation has also led to the creation of advance directive documents that permit you to give directions regarding your future medical care in the event that you are unable to do so. These documents fall into two general categories: a Living Will Declaration and a Durable Power of Attorney.

This section contains general information pertaining to these advance medical directives. Because laws and regulations vary from state to state and are subject to change, the information contained in this section cannot take the place of legal counsel.

When considering whether or not you wish to prepare such a directive, you should first contact your attorney. You may also want to discuss this matter with your doctor, family members or a close friend. Two additional sources for information, regarding this subject are your state's Attorney General's office and the nonprofit organization, Choice in Dying. This organization has developed declaration forms applicable to all states. They also offer numerous publications that provide additional information about various aspects of the right to refuse life-sustaining treatments. The organization's mailing address is:

Choice in Dying, Inc.
1620 Eye St NW 202
Washington, DC 20006-4031
(202) 338-9790

Steps to Follow:

- ❧ First, consult your attorney.
- ❧ Check the laws in your state regarding Living Will Declaration and Durable Power of Attorney.
- ❧ Put your wishes in writing and be as specific as possible.
- ❧ Sign and date your directive(s) and have it (them) witnessed and notarized., if necessary in your state.
- ❧ Keep a card in your wallet stating that you have an advance medical directive(s) and where to find it (them).
- ❧ Give a copy of your directive(s) to your attorney, your physician, your proxy (in the case of a Durable Power of Attorney) and a person who is likely to be notified in an emergency.
- ❧ Keep a copy of your directive(s) in a secure place, not a bank vault.
- ❧ Review your advance directive(s) regularly and share it (them) with a family member or close friend.
